Rep. Slotkin, ALL of MI-08 needs Medicare for All.

America's Uninsured are Majority-Minority

The US Census projects the majority of the American population will be of minority background (majority-minority) by the year 2040. But right now, 59% of America's uninsured are people of color. In Michigan, people of color are more likely to be uninsured despite being only 25% of the population.

Medicare For All extends health care as a basic human right to every US resident.

Everyone is automatically enrolled, and the coverage moves with every person as he/she/they move through different chapters of life: from childhood to adulthood, from job to job, through health and sickness. Consistent, stable coverage for health care is critical for all of us, but especially for minority communities. Under the status quo, coverage is inconsistent. Eligibility fluctuates as people change jobs, incomes, addresses, or other life circumstances (marriage, divorce, graduation from school/college, injury, retirement, etc.).

Racial disparities in coverage for health care are unsustainable for Michigan. We can address these injustices with urgency through Medicare For All.

Medicare For All Addresses Minority Health Disparities

Universal coverage is not enough for minority Americans, many of whom do not have easy access to hospitals and clinics, and can not find high-quality, culturally competent care. Medicare For All directs research and resources to improve health equity at state and national levels for medically underserved populations. Through this work, we can upgrade service, deliver high-quality medical care, and improve outcomes.

Under Medicare For All, the prices for prescription drugs will be significantly lower because Medicare will have negotiating power against Big Pharma corporations. Minority families will no longer struggle with the false choice of paying for groceries, utilities, or prescriptions. Health outcomes amenable to medication will improve.

We Must End Racism in Health Care and Elsewhere

Even with the passage of Medicare For All, we will still need to dismantle racism, the biggest contributor to minority health disparities and poor health outcomes. Medicare For All is a critical tool for building racial justice, but it is by no means a panacea. Building and maintaining equity will require levels of diligence and vigilance our country has not deployed yet but certainly must if we are to thrive. By guaranteeing every person in America the basic human right of health care under Medicare For All, we take an important step forward.
